SEARCH OF THE RUINS.

The Body of a Pueblo Man Was Found Last Night.

ALSO TWO OTHER DEAD MEN.

A Rumor that the Engineer Was Seen Alive After the Explosion But It is Not Verified.—The Search in the Gumry Hotel Ruins Was Suspended All Afternoon.—Several More Bodies Found.—Three Discovered Last Night.—One Supposed to be That of Mr Blake, of Pueblo.

Denver, Colo., August 20.—Mrs. Celia Decker wired Chief Goulding from Butte, Mont., today, asking for news of William Decker, who was bell boy at the Gumry hotel at the time of the explosion. It is likely the poor boy perished.

Mayor McMurray today received a telegram asking the whereabouts of Robert Seneca Haight, who was for many years treasurer of Gilpin county. Mr. Haight registered at the Gumry hotel August 8 with his wife. The message is from his sister at San Francisco, who was notified that probably Mr. Haight was not at the hotel Sunday night.

Work on the ruins was suspended and the search for bodies discontinued this afternoon until the walls, which threatened to topple over and bury the workmen, can be pulled down. It is believed there are at least ten bodies in the ruins, and several days will probably elapse before all can be recovered.

The body of James Murphy was shipped tonight to Cincinnati, where his brother, Joseph Murphy, lives; the body of George Burt, the Rock Island railroad conductor, was shipped to Chicago; the body of Myron E. Hawley, the Union Pacific railroad clerk, was sent to Omaha, by request of his wife, who was in Chicago when he met his death; the body of Frederick Houbbold was sent to Lisbon, Iowa, where he resided, and the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Greiner will be sent to Grand Rapids, Mich., where they formerly lived.

The anxiety felt regarding J. A. Brown and J. L. Kirke, of Omaha, was somewhat relieved this afternoon when it was learned that the room which they occupied Saturday night was occupied Sunday night by William Decker, a bell boy. Brown and Kirke may have left the hotel Sunday.

Fire Chief Roberts says that he saw Elmer Loesher, also known as Pierce, the young engineer whose carelessness caused the explosion, walking rapidly away from the scene of the disaster about ten minutes after the fire department arrived. Detectives are searching for him.

Mayor McMurray, who has remained at the scene of the catastrophe directing operations, has announced his intention of sending a communication to the city council demanding stringent legislation in regard to the inspection of boilers and the issue of engineers' papers.

The Denver branch of the National Association of Stationary Engineers will meet tomorrow evening to take action regarding the explosion. The 165 members are exasperated at the laxity said to exist in official circles in the matter of boiler inspection.

The horrors of the hotel explosion increase as more progress is made in excavating the ruins, and even the workmen themselves this morning became appalled as they realized more and more the extent of the disaster.

Since the finding of the body of Murphy, the contractor, early this morning the attention of the force was turned to the portion of the building that lay next to the alley, where the rubbish appeared to be looser and more easily moved, and by daylight a great cavity had been made in the ruins, reaching down toward the basement. A large force of men was put to work in this hole, enlarging it and slowly making progress to the front of the building, where the remains of the rooms and the interior were piled up ten or fifteen feet in a shapeless and almost immovable mass. Beneath this pile, it was evident, were buried the

PAIN AND MISERY

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA

Cures Rheumatism.

"About 8 years ago, I suffered from what the doctors called rheumatism. Nobody knows the pain and misery which I had to endure and which clung to me in spite of the medicines prescribed. At last, I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After a short time, the pains ceased. I continued the use of the Sarsaparilla for a whole year, until the rheumatism entirely disappeared." — JAMES WAY, proprietor of livery stable, Roseville, Cal.

body of Edwards was found a quantity of articles were taken out which were known to have belonged to the deceased Edwards in life. Among them were wearing apparel, a diary, several private account books, a watch, a pocket knife and a pocket book containing $30 in money.

In the section of the pile near Eighteenth street it was known that four beds were close at hand, but owing to the condition of the ruins they could not be got. It is thought that this mass hides the bodies of two of the chambermaids and one child.

Among the peculiar incidents of the morning was the finding of articles belonging to one Greaber, who was not reported missing. If the body is in the ruins it will probably be found soon, as much of his personal property has been recovered. It is an unsolved mystery how the owner happened to be there if it should be found that he is among the ruins. If there is one man there unreported there may yet be others.

By far the larger part of the work remains to be done, as the floor of the basement has not been reached. No one appeared to know definitely this morning whether or not it was the second or third floor that had been reached, and there must yet be at least ten bodies to be accounted for. In the excavation made this morning, next to the basement, a portion of the boiler was found deeply imbedded in the wall of solid masonry, showing the violence of the explosion.

THREE BODIES FOUND.

Denver, Colo., August 20.—Work was resumed excavating in the ruins this evening, the most dangerous part of the side wall having been removed. At 11:30 p. m. the workmen were apparently close upon three more bodies in different parts of the building. A gold watch and a memorandum in a vest, evidently belonging to M. H. Munroe, of Carthage, Ohio, have been found. Also personal effects belonging to Albert S. Blake, of Pueblo, Colo., was taken out. Two others are in sight. All are so burned and mangled as to be almost beyond recognition. Counting these the number recovered thus far is 16.

IS NOT MR. BLAKE.

Denver, Colo., August 21. (Special.)—Tonight three bodies have been recovered, and at 2:30 a. m. four others are in sight—two women and presumably two men. The women were in one bed and are believed to have been chambermaids.

George Blake, the brother of A. L. Blake, states that the first body found tonight is not his relative. It may be W. J. Corson, of Pueblo. None of the other five can be identified.
