PCCLD offers online digital library service OverDrive

PUEBLO, Colo. – Pueblo City-County Library District is expanding online services by offering free, downloadable e-audio books and e-books. The OverDrive online digital library allows library-card holders to checkout and download digital media through the library’s website at www.pueblolibrary.org.

With the OverDrive service, patrons can download selections to personal laptops, desktop computers, e-readers (including Kindle and Nook), digital tablets (including iPad), smart phones, MP3 players and other devices. Patrons may have up to 10 titles checked out at once. The titles expire on their own, so there’s no need to worry about returns.

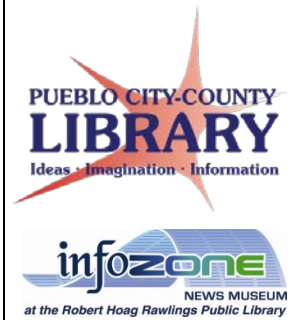

Users must have an Internet-ready computer or mobile device, and a valid library card. Additionally, free software available through the PCCLD website is necessary. If reading on a computer or select e-reader models, users will need to download Adobe Digital Editions software available free on Adobe’s website.

Free OverDrive technology sessions will be offered throughout the library district. These sessions provide an overview of how to search, checkout and download e-content from the PCCLD website. No registration is required for these free and open programs. Event times and locations are listed below:

- Barkman Library, Feb. 7 from 1-3 p.m.
- Pueblo West Library Feb. 8 from 10 a.m.-noon
- Lamb Library, Feb. 9 from 10 a.m.-noon
- Rawlings Library Feb. 15 from 9-11a.m.

For more information on OverDrive, or to register for a class, contact Andrew Bregar at andrew.bregar@pueblolibrary.org.
