Celebrate Cinco de Mayo with PCCLD!

HISPANIC RESOURCE FILM

Cinco de Mayo, La Batalla (R)
Thursday, May 4

6:30-8:30 p.m., RA, InfoZone-4th floor

The story of Mexico's Battle of Puebla, the most important battle in Mexico's history. When the unbeatable French army invades Mexico to set up a monarchy, General Ignacio Zaragoza (Kuno Becker) must defend the city of Puebla, commanding a poorly armed and outnumbered troop of men. Meanwhile, two young Mexican lovers manage to find love amidst the chaos of war. Cinco de Mayo, La Batalla chronicles the bravery of a people pushed to the limit, fighting for their nation, their families and their pride.

How PCCLD compares to peer libraries

Jon Walker

by Jon Walker

Our goal at Pueblo City-County Library District is simple. We aim to provide the best possible public library service for our community. We work diligently to track our progress toward this end. One way we do this is comparing PCCLD with peer institutions.

An important yardstick is looking to those public libraries in Colorado, which, like PCCLD, serve larger populations. The Library Research Service (LRS) recently revealed new annual statistics that helps with this.

It is part of their Colorado Public Library Annual Report, www.lrs.org, and includes research results and statistics for public libraries throughout the state. PCCLD's outcomes fared quite well in this analysis.

There are 13 public libraries in Colorado serving populations greater than 100,000 people. These are, in addition to PCCLD, the Arapahoe Library District, Aurora Public Library, Boulder Public Library, Denver Public Library, Douglas County Libraries, High Plains Library District, Jefferson County Public Library, Mesa County Public Library, Pikes Peak Library District, Poudre River Public Library District, Rangeview Library District, and Westminster Public Library.

Public libraries account for many facets of their service.

A helpful guide to what is most important among these is provided by Library Journal, which, working in concert with the Institute for Museum and Library Services and the National Center for Educational Statistics, has consistently touted four key measures as critical in determining the success of public libraries' overall community engagement.

These are the number of (1) library visits, (2) circulation, (3) program attendance, and (4) public Internet computer usage. Library Journal uses these to determine its annual Index of Public Library Service that ranks public libraries across the nation, <http://lj.libraryjournal.com/stars-faq/>.

LRS released data recently for Colorado libraries for calendar year 2015 for each of these four key measures. We can refer to this study to compare PCCLD with the other large Colorado public

libraries. When we do so, this is what we find.

PCCLD ranks second in the state in circulation per capita when compared with its peers. (Figure 1)

The news is even brighter with visits per capita to our local public libraries. In this category, PCCLD ranks number one among its Colorado peers, as shown in the table. (Figure 2)

PCCLD also does well with regard to program attendance per capita. This is shown in the following table, where, again, our local libraries is first among peers statewide. (Figure 3)

Finally, in computer use, PCCLD also is doing quite well. PCCLD is third among its thirteen Colorado peers in this category. (Figure 4)

PCCLD strives to provide the best possible library service for our community. The most recent annual data from LRS ranks PCCLD number one in two of the most important public library measures, and number two and three of thirteen libraries in the other two key categories. This confirms that PCCLD is quite successful in achieving great results.

Winners of the 2017 Create your Own Dr. Seuss Character contest. There were a total of 2,100 entries.

Amada Irma Perez, author of My Diary From Here To There was the 2017 Read OUT LOUD! guest. Over 1,100 children from various schools came to Rawlings in April for her talk.

Mary Simmons was named the 2016-17 Friend of the Year at the Friends of the Library Annual Meeting and Luncheon in April.

Lest we forget: PCCLD remembers World War I

Congressman Scott Tipton visited Rawlings Library in April to present a letter to Maria Tucker and Pueblo City-County Library District for the World War I exhibit on display.

Woodrow Wilson, portrayed by Judd Bankert, visited Swallows Charter Academy in April.
