Libraries for Learning: High school diplomas for adults

Jon Walker

by Jon Walker

The library is a learning institution. First and foremost, the Pueblo City-County Library District (PCCLD) exists to ensure members of our community have access to information and other resources to support individual and collective learning efforts throughout life. A new PCCLD program aligns well with this mission. PCCLD recently collaborated with the State of Colorado to pilot a program here to provide adults without a high school diploma the opportunity to earn one.

Colorado law supports free public education for minors. This culminates with a high school diploma. Of course, a free public education through high school is a hallmark of learning throughout the United States. There are some who do not take full advantage of this and do not complete high school. Later, as adults, it is not uncommon for many to desire to complete high school. Adults in Colorado did not enjoy a path to a high school diploma without paying individually for it. Until now.

PCCLD received a $30,000 grant from the Colorado State Library about one year ago to pilot an online high school program for adults in our community. As a result, five diploma recipients graduated in July with 40 additional Puebloans currently enrolled in the program. Another five students are on-track to graduate in September. This PCCLD high school diploma project has been considered a success and the Colorado State Library recently awarded another $25,000 in scholarship support to continue it.

Enrolled adults apply their learning efforts to help earn an accredited high school diploma, as well as a workforce readiness certificate. The cutting-edge program is designed with the adult learner in mind. It is 100 percent online. This means adult students access their course materials from any public-use computer at any library or elsewhere. The program is all-inclusive online, so there is no need to purchase additional materials. It is self-paced and learning is self-initiated in an online environment, so there are no additional instructor fees.

PCCLD's adult high school diploma project is an accredited high school educational program by the AdvancED Accreditation Commission, the national commission that confers the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Council on Accreditation and School Improvement (SACS CASI), North Central Association Commission on Accreditation and School Improvement (NCA CASI), and the Northwest Accreditation Commission (NWAC) accreditation seals. As such, students can transfer-in previously earned high school credits, so they do not have to repeat courses they have completed in the past. This helps many graduate even sooner.

This alternative path for adults to earn a high school diploma is simply one other way PCCLD is stepping-up to serve the members of our community.

2019 Leadership Institute seeking scholarship donations

Do you care about girls in our community? Do you think young women need leadership-training opportunities? Becoming a donor for the 2019 Leadership Institute class is one way you can have a positive impact on high school girls and help support the next generation of leaders in Pueblo. A $500 gift pays for one student's costs, but even $25 helps a young woman have access to high-quality leadership training. Contact Midori Clark at midori.clark@pueblolibrary.org to sponsor a student today!

The May Leadership Institute meeting featured Women in Leadership

Thank you Leadership Institute 2018!

2019 Leadership Institute now accepting applications

Do you know a woman in grades 10-12 who wants to make a positive impact in Pueblo, learn about leadership and build their college resume?

Encourage them to apply to the 2019 Leadership Institute, a fundraiser for the Pueblo Library Foundation. This is a character-building program where participants learn about leadership, teamwork, volunteering and will be recognized publicly as the next generation of leaders and philanthropists in Pueblo.

For more information contact Midori Clark at (719) 562-5605 or email midori.clark@pueblolibrary.org for complete details.

2018 Leadership Institute and Le Bal de Bibliotheque

Six women in grades 10-12 were presented at the 2018 Le Bal de Bibliotheque in July. The Bal was the final event in a six-month long leadership program that benefits the Pueblo Library Foundation.

Colorado State Fair Poetry competition

Colorado is where the mountains meet the plains — where people are influenced by expansive natural worlds and intimate big-city nooks. The Colorado State Fair Poetry Competition offers a space to bring these elements together in words — a place where the experienced poet meets the novice. Writers of all ages are called upon to enter the second annual Colorado State Fair Poetry Competition. There is no theme. Original and unpublished writing is welcome.

Colorado's State Fair
Aug 24-Sept 3 In Pueblo

Deadline to enter online is Friday, Aug. 17 by 5 p.m.

For rules and to enter online visit:

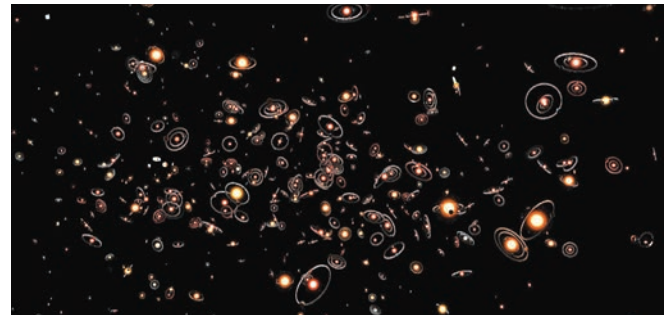

coloradostatefair.com/events/2018/poetry

Winning poets and finalists will have the chance to read their work at A Night To Recite, Thursday, Aug. 30, 7 p.m., Fine Arts Gallery at the Colorado State Fair.

Prizes will be awarded in two groups: Adult, ages 18 and up. Youth, ages 17 and younger.

Sponsored by: Pueblo City County Library District, Colorado Humanities Center for the Book and Tattered Cover Book Store.
