Do you download?

Jon Walker

by Jon Walker

Do you download? I do and, maybe, you should, too.

Downloading via PCCLD platforms allows me to enjoy great print, audio, and video at home and on the go. It is free and available 24 hours per day, seven days each week, and 52 weeks every year. Books, audiobooks, music, and movies.

Download all these to your phone, tablet, computer, or TV. If you don't own a compatible device, not to worry. PCCLD can lend you a tablet, too.

The library district has invested heavily in recent years in e-content. The result is PCCLD provides you with more access to more books and other library materials than ever before. The breadth of titles available from your public library now is truly fantastic. We estimate today PCCLD provides our customers with their choices from among upwards of twelve million e-titles, including books, music, audiobooks, and movies. That's right, 12,000,000!

There are several ways to gain access to this treasure trove of content. I will begin here with a personal favorite of mine. It is Hoopla. PCCLD's Hoopla platform provides over 500,000 titles across six formats: audiobooks, movies, music, books, comics, and television. This includes movies from companies like Lionsgate, Disney, Warner Brothers, Starz, and others; and audiobooks from publishers such as Tantor Audio, Blackstone Audio, and more. Hoopla also contains a growing list of ebooks from favorite publishers, like HarperCollins and Harlequin. Hoopla content principally consists of an excellent catalog of backlist titles delivered via easy-to-use apps with focus on the latest browser, phone, tablet, and TV products to deliver a grand user experience. I personally use Hoopla all the time.

Another superb digital media platform is PCCLD's cloudLibrary. Content in cloudLibrary is centered around e-books and e-audiobooks, and does not include movies and music. CloudLibrary encompasses a wide variety of popular fiction and nonfiction backlist titles, but, importantly, it also enjoys the significant advantage of providing you with an abundant list of current best-selling titles, too, including popular recent releases and frontlist titles from the Big Five publishers: Macmillan, Hachette, HarperCollins, Penguin/Random House, and Simon & Schuster. CloudLibrary is easy to use and delivers an outstanding experience. Right now, I am reading the 2017 All Pueblo Reads selection Station Eleven by Emily St. John Mandel from Penguin/Random House on my PCCLD cloudLibrary app.

Next on my list of favorite PCCLD digital media platforms are the companion services Freeding and Freegal. Together these two provide over 50,000 backlist and classic ebook titles from more than 1,000 publishers plus an amazing eleven million music recordings, including all genres such as classical and opera, country, pop, rock, and more from top music publishing houses like Sony Music Entertainment. I personally find using my PCCLD Freegal app an especially satisfying way to listen to my favorite music.

A fourth platform is Project Gutenberg. It provides nearly 60,000 e-book and e-audiobook titles and features works currently in the public domain.

Whatever I like and whenever I like, PCCLD's impressive array of downloadable and online content serves as a pleasant way to read great books, listen to wonderful music, view outstanding movies, and learn. To get started, all you need is a library card, then click on <http://www.pueblolibrary.org/digitalmedia> or ask your friendly librarian for assistance.

2018 Leadership Institute now accepting applications

Do you know a woman in grades 10-12 who wants to make a positive impact in Pueblo, learn about leadership and build their college resume?

Encourage them to apply to the 2018 Leadership Institute, a fundraiser for the Pueblo Library Foundation. This is a character-building program where participants learn about leadership, teamwork, volunteering and will be recognized publicly as the next generation of leaders and philanthropists in Pueblo.

The six-month institute culminates with Le

Bal de Bibliotheque on Saturday, July 14, a one-of-a-kind event where all participants will be publicly recognized for their accomplishments and presented to the community.

Applications and program information is available online at pueblolibrary.org/leadershipinstitute. For priority consideration, early admittance applications are due Friday, Aug. 25.

Contact Midori Clark at 562-5605 or email midori.clark@pueblolibrary.org for complete details.

2017 Leadership Institute and Le Bal de Bibliotheque

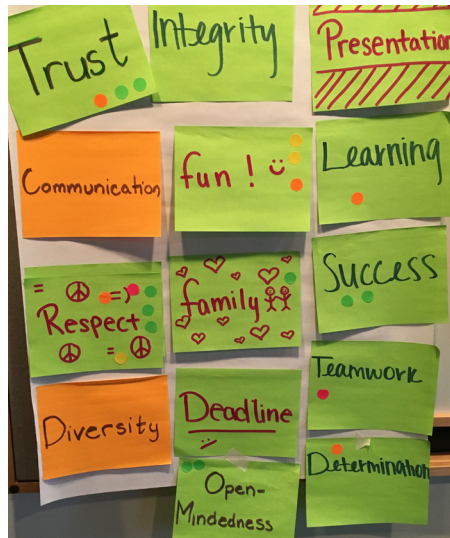

Nine women in grades 10-12 were presented at the 2017 Le Bal de Bibliotheque in July. The Bal is the final event in a six-month long leadership program that benefits the Pueblo Library Foundation. This year's cohort raised a net amount of $10,015. Early admittance applications are being accepted now through Aug. 25. Applications online at www.pueblolibrary.org/leadershipinstitute.

The May meeting featured women in Leadership.

Students learn about their strengths at the first meeting in February at the Rawlings Library.

2018 Leadership Institute seeking scholarship donations

Do you care about girls in our community? Do you think young women need leadership-training opportunities? Becoming a donor for the 2018 Leadership Institute class is one way you can have a positive impact on high school girls and help support the next generation of leaders in Pueblo. A $500 gift pays for one student's costs, but even $25 helps a young woman have access to high-quality leadership training. Contact Midori Clark at midori.clark@pueblolibrary.org to sponsor a student today!

Database Highlight:
Science Reference Center
 Available to residents of Pueblo County with a valid library card. Go to <http://www.pueblolibrary.org/eresources> then click on Science and choose Science Reference Center.

Best Use: Science Reference Center is an EBSCO-hosted database containing hundreds of full-text articles and images. Subjects include biology, earth and space science, chemistry, health and medicine, technology, and wildlife. Users can browse by subject or perform an advanced search to target specific results. The convenient citation tool can assist students with bibliographic references, and the text-to-speech feature benefits auditory learners as well as English language learners. Educators will appreciate the Reference Shelf for quick access to lesson plans, worksheets, and science experiment activities.

Intro to Shamanism: The Art of Conscious Dreaming from a Toltec Perspective

Thursday, Aug. 3, 6:30 p.m. RA, InfoZone-4th floor

Daniel Stone

Daniel Stone offers an opportunity to get out of your mind and into your heart through ancient techniques and practices influenced by shamanic traditions from all over the world. Through meditations and shamanic practices, people feel connected to nature on a deeper level that helps them navigate toward their life's purpose in the perpetual present moment. Be reminded that YOU are the conscious dreamer.

Stone's life quest has been to understand dreaming. For 10 years, he traveled widely, and it was through the shamanic path working with indigenous shamans, in particular, the Australian Aboriginals, Tibetan Buddhism (Bon shamanism), and the Toltec wisdom of Central America, that he found a language that could bring together the night with the day. Life as dream.

Mandala mania at the library!

The completed sand mandala, which took approximately four days for the Tibetan monks to create.

The Mystical Arts of Tibet cultural exchange program came to the Rawlings Library in July. Seven Buddhist monks created a sand mandala featuring the conflict resolution deity. Monks worked on the mandala daily for several hours and held opening and closing ceremonies that were each attended by more than 300 observers. Three lectures were also held throughout the week.

Geshe Nima Tsering explains what will happen during the opening ceremony to the large crowd gathered at the Rawlings Library. The monks chanted and played longhorn instruments during the ceremony, which blesses the space and prepares the area for the creation of the sand mandala.

Monks work on the creation of the sand mandala, grain by grain.
