The Pueblo City-County Library District recently received the Library Journal's prestigious Star Library award.

This recognition places the local public library among the top three percent of all public libraries in the United States. It also affirms the dedication to planning, accountability, and service of those involved with the district in recent years plus strong support from the community. This work continues with the library's 2017 Annual Plan.

PCCLD's new strategic plan, which was developed and adopted in 2015 via a comprehensive and collaborative process involving library stakeholders, helps set the

Leadership Institute now accepting applications

Do you know a woman in grades 10-12 who wants to make a positive impact in Pueblo, learn about leadership and build their college resume?

Encourage them to apply to the 2017 Leadership Institute, a fundraiser for the Pueblo Library Foundation. This is a character-building program where participants learn about leadership, teamwork, volunteering and will be recognized publicly as the next generation of leaders and philanthropists in Pueblo.

The six-month institute culminates with Le Bal de Bibliotheque, a one-of-a-kind event where all participants will be publicly recognized for their accomplishments and presented to the community.

The 2016 Leadership Institute class listens to women leaders in the community.

Applications and program information is available online at pueblolibrary.org/leadershipinstitute. Applications are due current path forward for libraries locally in calling for special attention by the district in these six areas:

- Create young readers
- Strengthen community partnerships
- Bridge the digital divide
- Data-driven planning
- Serve the whole family at all stages of life
- Lifelong learning begins with staff.

These areas of focus are prominent in this 2017 annual planning document. The PCCLD team also continues to work toward achieving designated key results, which include increasing use of digital services and traditional e-collections plus ensuring more customers visit district libraries to read and study, learn and participate in library-sponsored cultural and educational events and activities. Delivery on these is an important measure of the organization's vitality and success. PCCLD's progress in its mission to provide the best possible public library service for the community relates directly to these strategic areas of focus and institutional key results. PCCLD will strive in 2017 to implement specific objectives in support of the stated areas of strategic focus and key results.

The objectives outlined in the 2017 PCCLD Annual Plan are intended to do this. They are the end product of a planning process that involved participation by PCCLD trustees, managers and administrators, and employees. The planning exercise also integrated contributions from vital PCCLD partners, such as the Friends of the Library and the Pueblo Library Foundation. This 2017 Plan incorporates specific objectives identified as priorities at a special retreat of PCCLD stakeholders conducted on Aug. 24, 2016, including these consensus items: support for procurement of abundant new collection materials, investment in refreshing library facilities and information technology, revitalizing library ADA assistive services, and special attention to library digital and online resources. Finally, this plan takes into consideration revenue projections for 2017 with the somewhat somber anticipation of no increase over current year funding.

Those objectives representing new initiatives for 2017 are delineated in the pages of the plan along with those identified with notable bearing on financial resources. Listed in alphabetical order, each objective is accompanied by action steps intended to facilitate accomplishment. This annual plan document is the outcome of much consideration and effort, and provides positive direction for the district in moving forward to fulfill its mission to provide the best possible public library service to the community.

I invite you to peruse PCCLD's 2017 Plan. It should be another great year for local library service.
