PRINTED THANKS TO THE GENEROUS SUPPORT OF FRIENDS OF THE LIBRARY

Three new public libraries for Pueblo County!

by Jon Walker

For the past several months, a team of professionals have been working diligently on a project to build three new libraries in Pueblo County. The new libraries, will be located on Pueblo's East Side, the St. Charles Mesa and in the Greenhorn Valley in Colorado City.

An illustration by OZ Architecture depicts the south view of the East Side Library that will be located on the corner of 7th Street and Monument Avenue.

We remain on track to break ground later this summer. The libraries are scheduled to open to the public about mid-year in 2014. To date, quite a bit of progress has been made on the new libraries' project:

- The sites have been determined. On the City of Pueblo's East Side, the new library will be located at the corner of 7th Street and Monument Avenue. Near many businesses, churches and schools, it is a bustling location and will make a great spot for a beautiful new library.

- On the St. Charles Mesa, the library will be at 24 ½ Lane and CO HWY 50. The location is north of the highway, west of a Pueblo Rural Fire District station, and near some School District 70 facilities. This is a busy area on the Mesa and a great spot for a new library.

- The Greenhorn Valley site is adjacent to CO HWY 165 at Cibola Drive (County Road 192) at the east end of Greenhorn Meadows Park. It is a beautiful location and will allow convenient access to a wonderful library for people living in this area of southern Pueblo County.

- The architect has completed schematic designs for the new full-service libraries. Each library will be approximately 7,500 square feet in size, and will include plenty of books and other library materials, public-use computers and other information technology, comfortable spaces for study and learning, and community meeting rooms for people to gather and exchange ideas. The architect, Jim Bershof with OZ Architecture, has done superb work designing the libraries to fit with the qualities of each of the three communities. The next step in the design process is to solicit final comments from stakeholders, then proceed with the development of construction documents.

•Pueblo-based H. W. Houston Construction Company will build the new libraries. They are on-track to begin construction later this summer, once the construction documents and permits are issued and subcontractor bidding is agreed upon.

•The financial plan is ready to go. In total, this is approximately a $6.1 million capital project to build and equip all three libraries. The good news is more than 90% of the funds are now in-place and available for the project. Nevertheless, we continue to work to "top off" the funding necessary to complete the libraries.

About $535,000 remains to be raised. The Pueblo Library Foundation is working diligently now to complete the necessary fundraising.

Pueblo City-County Library District is pleased to reach ever closer to our goal of ensuring free and open access to information for everyone in our service area. Each year, more people are using our libraries to check out record amounts of library books and other materials, and to participate in a variety of library-hosted educational and cultural programs and events. For those interested in supporting any or all of the new libraries, please contact Midori Clark, the library's director of development, at 562-5605 or midori.clark@pueblolibrary.org. Your support is needed to complete the new libraries!

Children celebrate Dr. Seuss' birthday, March 2, at the Lamb Library while being entertained by the local, legendary performer of family-friendly hip-hop — Mr. Kneel!

Paulette Stuart portrays Clara Latshaw — a woman who was instrumental in the development of Mineral Palace Park in celebration of Women's History Month at the Rawlings Library InfoZone Theater.

Library patrons gather around a statue of Clara Latshaw, sculpted by Rick Willits, which was unveiled in March in celebration of Women's History Month at the Rawlings Library.

Friends of the Library president's corner

by Judy Wodishek

Wow! What a short and busy month!

We continue to THANK our Books Again volunteers — we could not function without them! As I mentioned at the Volunteer Appreciation Luncheon on Feb. 19, "Volunteers are not paid — not because they are worthless, but because they are PRICELESS!" At the short meeting following the luncheon we welcomed Greg Clark — our newest member of the Friends of the Library Board. We are honored to have Greg on board!

During our March 19 meeting, we approved the application of Brad Whitney to the board. Like Greg, Brad brings a wealth of experience and skills to the FOL Board. We also heard a report on the members' half-price book sale on Feb. 16 and a report on February sales at the Books Again Bookstore.

We are excited about our Annual Dinner on April 19 in the Ryals Room at the Rawlings Library. It will feature a western theme! We are honored to have three noteworthy presenters. Karen and Harry Vold live east of Pueblo and will tell us about their experiences in producing national rodeos for more than 60 years. Harry hails from Canada but has a wealth of experience producing not only our Colorado State Fair Rodeo but national and international rodeos as well. Oh, the stories he has to share!

Karen (Womack) Vold is a member of the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and made quite a name as a rodeo trick rider for many years. She currently teaches three trick-riding schools on their ranch during March of each year. She has written two cookbooks full of recipes she uses daily to feed their ranch hands and to entertain. The books feature photos and interesting stories concerning the sources of her recipes.

Harry, a member of the National Rodeo Hall of Fame and voted Stock Contractor of the Year many times, is the subject of a biography, The Duke of the Chutes, written by Colorado Springs author Loren Whittemore. Mr. Whittemore will tell us about his experiences writing the book.

Karen's cookbooks and Harry's biography will be for sale the evening of the annual dinner. Reservations may be made at the Books Again Bookstore. Hope to see you there!
