Women in grades 10-12 are invited to apply to be part of the first ever Leadership Institute, a fundraiser for the Pueblo Library Foundation.

This is a character-building program where participants will learn about leadership, teamwork, volunteering and be recognized publicly as the next generation of leaders and philanthropists in Pueblo.

This will be a life-changing opportunity to make friends, learn about leadership and impact the lives of Pueblo's citizenry through supporting the public library.

The six-month institute will culminate with the Bal de Bibliotheque, a one-

State of the Library

by Jon Walker

I am frequently asked questions like, "How are things at the library?" To sum up recent activities, I'd say things are, in a word, busy. We checked out more library materials than ever in the history of PCCLD last year; and, so far in 2015, our checkouts are more than 23 percent ahead of that record-setting 2014 pace. Our community's positive response to the library is reflected in Library Research Service data showing we are ranked number one in key areas for a community our size, such as the number of people visiting our libraries per capita and the number of people attending library-sponsored educational and cultural programs and events on a per capita basis.

We are preparing now for even a better year in 2016. The new libraries in the Greenhorn Valley, in the county east of the City of Pueblo, and in Pueblo's east side neighborhood are making positive differences. Our older libraries — Barkman Library, Lamb Library, Pueblo West Library, Library @ the Y, and Rawlings Library — also continue to experience increasingly heavy use. Librarians and employees throughout the library district work in impressive ways to make our buildings lively places dedicated to literacy, lifelong learning and the notion that our free society thrives best when free and open access to information for all is guaranteed.

Trustee talk: Always striving to be better

by Jim Stuart

Each time the Board of Trustees has a staff appreciation event — which we do every quarter for employees celebrating an anniversary with PCCLD, as well as those being promoted and new hires — we put great emphasis on how each and every employee is what makes the library district tops in the state and nation.

Each and every employee, manager, trustee and friend of the library is constantly working to make our organization more meaningful and useful to the citizens of Pueblo County. Here are some of the things all of us connected with PCCLD are always striving for:

- More kids reading and owning books
- Widest possible range of events and programs to appeal to many interests.
- More face time with patrons.
- Recruiting more to participate in our literacy programs
- Greater outreach to fill community needs.
- The most highly trained staff.
- All citizens of Pueblo County to be aware of the many services available at PCCLD.

These are just a few of the things that in one way or another are always on our annual plans and are constantly being improved on. And, I might add, will never be accomplished because these are not just goals, they are operating ideals that can never be as good as we would like them to be.
