Rosetta Stone Language Program

Going on vacation? Want to sharpen your language skills? Try the “As Seen on TV” Rosetta Stone!

The Pueblo City-County Library District is adding this highly publicized language-learning software to its lineup of free electronic resources.

All library-card holders can access Rosetta Stone language instruction through the library’s website, www.pueblolibrary.org.

You can learn Spanish, French, German or English at your own pace and at home, if you have an internet connection. Multiple skill levels are available for each language, and activities involve listening, reading, speaking and writing.

Rosetta Stone programs help users develop everyday proficiency naturally, the way people learn their first language - by associating new words with real-life meaning.

Rosetta Stone’s Dynamic Immersion method uses thousands of real-life color images to convey the meaning of the spoken and written phrases in the program.

Its carefully sequenced structure, use of native speakers and ability to provide instant feedback teaches new language without memorization, translation or grammar drills.

To access Rosetta Stone, follow these simple steps:

1. Go to www.pueblolibrary.org
2. Click on the “Online Databases” link toward the bottom of the page.
3. Select the “Language Learning” link from the alphabetical list of electronic resources page.
4. Click the “Rosetta Stone” link.
5. Click the “Register” link and enter the requested information, including your library card number (found on the back of your card or key tag).
6. Start learning!

For more information about this great new service, please contact the Readers Advisory and Reference department at (719) 562-5601.

The American Library Association annual conference by Jon Walker

In June, I was fortunate to be able to attend the annual conference of the American Library Association. It was an empowering and informative experience.

More than 28,000 library people attended the conference. It provided a special opportunity to interact and learn best practices (and pitfalls to avoid) from colleagues throughout the United States and the world.

There were more than 300 programs and workshops to choose from. In addition, more than 900 library vendors had exhibit booths.

I spent my time gaining knowledge on a number of topics to benefit our local library service. This included film and book discussion programming ideas, information on improving book and library materials procurement practices so we can better deliver the books and materials our customers want when they want them, and the latest methods for best securing our video and music collections from theft (a troubling but ongoing problem at the Pueblo City-County Library).

I also gathered information on technology trends in libraries, such as how to provide the best possible website, how to better manage public-use computers, and the possibility of offering downloadable audio books via the library website (we hope to begin providing this service in 2008).

For our new library scheduled to open next year in Pueblo West, I spent time visiting with library furniture vendors on best new furnishing designs. Possibly the most beneficial program concerned techniques for providing professional and continuing education for library workers, as we want to support our employees at the Pueblo City-County Library in being the best they can be.

Of course, ALA is a time to focus on authors. It was especially grand to hear some of my favorites, such as Patricia Cornwell, Nancy Pearl, and Garrison Keillor, talk about books and libraries.

Finally, on the last day of the conference, the state librarian Gene Hainer and I took advantage of the conference being in Washington D.C. We met with Sen. Ken Salazar at the Capitol and visited the office staff of Sen. Wayne Allard. We were able to discuss pending federal legislative initiatives with important impacts on libraries.

The ALA Conference this year was wonderful. I always encourage our employees to take advantage of library conferences and workshops. By learning from others we are able to continue to offer the best library service possible in our community.

Teen Stories @ Barkman

The Ice Dragon* by George R.R. Martin

Thursdays at 7:30 p.m.

Barkman Branch Library

1300 Jerry Murphy Rd.

The ice dragon was a creature of legend and fear, for no man had ever tamed one. When it flew overhead, it left in its wake desolate cold and frozen land.

But Adara was not afraid. For Adara was a winter child, born during the worst freeze that anyone, even the Old Ones, could remember. Adara could not remember the first time she had seen the ice dragon. It seemed that it had always been in her life, glimpsed from afar as she played in the frigid snow long after the other children had fled the cold.

In her fourth year she touched it, and in her fifth year she rode upon its broad, chilled back for the first time. Then, in her seventh year, on a calm summer day, fiery dragons from the North swooped down upon the peaceful farm that was Adara's home. And only a winter child -- and the ice dragon who loved her -- could save her world from utter destruction.

This event is free and open to teens in grades 5-8. All who attend get a personal copy of the book to take home and read. For further information, call the Barkman Branch Library at (719) 562-5680.

Friends of the Library President's Corner

by Jim Stuart

The Friends have always included some hardy souls who do some really hard work and on some occasions under difficult conditions. Sometimes the work isn't so hard but the environment they work in is. The latter was the case when we participated in the "Pueblo West Meet & Greet" event on a HOT and sometimes dusty weekend, June 29 and 30, on the prairie just north of Highway 50 in Pueblo West. Board member Jock Peters, with the help of Barbara Tuttoilmondo, took care of the event. Jock arranged a team of Pueblo West Friends of the Library volunteers to man the booth and took care of all the logistics. Thanks so much Jock and also a special thanks to all those who manned the booth: Hal & Barbara Deselms, Alice Selvage, Myrna Meier, Richard Hallock, Sherri Shrub, Doug and Rose Marie Knight, Gail Shepherd, Patricia Rosella, Sue Landrum and Lois Jones.

Our used bookstore "Books Again" is having a great year! Sales through June are up 50% for the year. And, while she would be the first to tell you she didn't do it alone, Melanie Tappen, who took over as manager of the store last fall, is the driving force and primarily responsible for this improvement. So, thanks Melanie for a job very well done, we really appreciate your dedication and organization.

What is this thing called "success"?

by Edna Shoaf

When all else fails, I haul out the big dictionary, which would give you a huge knot on the head if it conked you. So, one is inclined to believe most everything in that puppy, and it is lifted from the bookcase only in a dire emergency. (In this case, it was an emergency because I dinked around before beginning this column, and the deadline looms.)

The American Heritage defines success as, "The achievement of something desired, planned, or attempted; the gaining of fame or prosperity." Accordingly, Bill Gates is successful because he has gained prosperity. Tiger Woods is successful because he has gained fame. A family is successful if a man and woman have planned a family and lived a considerable time together without committing mayhem on one another or one of their offspring, and if said offspring have gained adulthood without causing too much disturbance in the lives of their neighbors and friends. A business is said to be successful if it produces a product which sells, and if their payroll is met each month and their patrons and workers are happy.

Consider, then, the used bookstore of the Friends of the Library. It can be considered successful because it has a donated product which sells, there is no payroll to meet, and the workers must be happy because of the numerous hours which they volunteer each day and week and month. At the present time we have 25 regular volunteers, and numerous part-timers, who give approximately 550 hours per month of their time to Books Again. With the money raised, the Friends have been able to fund many varied projects for the benefit of the citizens of Pueblo.

But what actually makes a family or a business or a used bookstore successful? I believe that it is the people who are involved, their expertise and enthusiasm, their love for the job they are doing, their willingness to give of their time and talents and do so with a smile and a glad heart. It is so much easier, and nicer, to be around those who are happy to assist you with your needs.

We have an interesting mix of people from all walks of life at Books Again - so many different ages, vocations, religions and races. There are retired folks and recent college grads. There are two retired dietitians, a banker, four Ph.D.s, a fireman, two retired librarians, a chef, a computer geek, a logistics consultant with General Motors, three from the Government Printing Office and Book Store, two who had their own business, a number of retired teachers, a couple of school administrators, a person who still has her own consulting business, and many others who drop in from time to time

Wow! Are you as impressed as I am? I hope so because these people represent dozens of college degrees and years and years of experience in the work place. But what they all have in common is a love of books and a willingness to help fund projects for the library by working to make Books Again a success.

Honestly now, wouldn't you enjoy joining this illustrious group? There is always a place for one more, rather like eating Jell-O - always room for more. And please don't forget that the short fortune teller who escaped from prison was considered to be a small medium at large!

Corner Café upgrades seating area and menu

The Corner Café, located on the 1st floor of the Rawlings Public Library, is pleased to announce the opening of an outdoor patio area. This new section is complete with new seating and umbrellas to shield patrons from the sun and heat.

If indoor seating is preferred, try the new coffee bar and bistro stools that feature beautiful views of the outdoors, including Bates Lane.

While sitting in either of these two new areas, customers can treat themselves to a wider selection of delicious drinks and a brand new offering, the veggie sandwich.

Purchases made at the Corner Café support the library district. A portion of the proceeds are given back to the library to support its operation, programming and other costs.

Thank you for your business!
