Adult Winter of Reading starts Dec. 14

Wrap yourself up in a story this winter with Adult Winter of Reading (AWR). This reading challenge is a great way for adults and families to cozy up to a good book during the chilly days of winter.

Here's how to participate:

- Pick Up an AWR bingo gameboard from any PCCLD location. Complete five activities to make a bingo – five across, five down or five diagonal. Turn in your completed bingo card at any PCCLD location to get a fun prize.
- Level Up to the AWR bookmark. Complete the listed activities, fill out your information, then turn in to any PCCLD location. Each completed bookmark is one entry into the grand prize drawing.
- Grand Prizes will be drawn at the end of Adult Winter of Reading.
- Wrap Yourself in AWR December 14-February 14; AWR is open to adults and families.

Kick off the fun on December 14 at Rawlings Library with a Book Walk treasure hunt. Pick up an Adult Winter of Reading Treasure Map and visit the second floor fiction and nonfiction section to explore each library station and to get your map stamped.

Collect all the stamps, then head down to the first floor's Maker Space. There you can enjoy free food, hot tea, crafts with Tea & Makes and enter for a chance to win that day's grand prize. Turn in your completed treasure map for an entry into a drawing for a Solar Roast gift card and a copy of "Martyr" by Kaveh Akbar.

Adult Winter of Reading wraps up February 14.

All Pueblo Reads public author talk

Avid readers were treated to a feast for the eyes and ears at the public author talk given by Alka Joshi, author of 2024's All Pueblo Reads selection "The Henna Artist" on October 26. Joshi discussed the journey of getting her first novel published as well as her process of writing the two additional novels in the series. Joshi was the featured speaker at the annual Book-lovers Ball, held on October 25. Both events were held at Rawlings Library.

Tour Tuesdays!

Free InfoZone Museum tours every week

Join the Museum services administrator on a tour of the newly curated Info Zone Museum at Rawlings Library. Explore the rich history of media and communications in Pueblo and the world. Tuesdays, 4-4:30 p.m. at Rawlings Library

PCCLD has partnered with the Robert Hoag Rawlings Foundation to offer an exhibit that examines the three primary communication revolutions and their impact on our lives.

The print, broadcast and digital eras produced historic change in American society because of the freedom of speech guaranteed in the 1st Amendment, technological advancements and mass cultural impact.

This exhibit integrates national and local content to help visitors have a historical context in which to understand how important it is to be a knowledgeable, critical and skilled consumer of information.

The Info Zone Museum, now located on the first floor of Rawlings Library.
