"NEVADA" TONIGHT.

The great duel scene in "Nevada" is one of the most thrilling and startling ever devised by a playwright. Imagine two men facing each other, divided only by the width of a chair, drawing by lots the two revolvers, any one of which is loaded, by means of which they are to decide the momentous question of which one is to continue to live. This is only one of the many exciting incidents which abound in this new play, in which Messrs. Miller and Hogarty are launching their dainty little star, Miss Elsa Ryan. At the Grand tonight.
