SPECIAL HOSPITAL TRAIN.

Moans and Stifled Cries Bear Witness to Injuries.

By Associated Press.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 2.—Twenty-two injured circusmen were brought to Detroit today in a special hospital train and taken to the Harper hospital. At the hospital tonight it was stated that none of them was likely to die tonight although John Thompson, of Peru, Ind., George Clough, of Geneva, Ohio, andl James Stewart of Denver are in a serious condition and may not recover.

The Pullman car that brought the injured here was a pitiful sight when it pulled into Detroit. The interior looked like a battlefield after a fierce encounter. Suffering men lay in every imaginable position in the berths, swathed in encrimsoned bandages that bore silent witness to their injuries. Moans and stifled cries told the story of their agonies. It was impossible to carry the stretchers through the narrow, crooked doors of the car and the suffering men were put through the windows as gently as possible, where ambulance surgeons awaited them and rushed them to the hospital.
