YOUNG MAN ACCIDENTALLY SHOT WHILE ON HUNTING TRIP

Two Men See a Duck at Same Time and Young Bradish Jumps up From Bushes in Front of Man Shooting Bird

Special to The Chieftain.

La Junta, March 11.—While on a hunting trip at the Holbrook reservoir with a party of six men, Will Bradish, aged 24 years, was accidentally shot this morning and died when upon arrival here a few hours later.

With three of the men Bradish was stooping in the bushes, while one of the men, G. S. Woodward, trainmaster of the western division of the Santa Fe railroad, noticed a duck and raised up to shoot.

At the same instant young Bradish jumped up, and as he was just in front of Woodward, he received the entire load of shot in his head. His brains were blown out.

Bradish, who has an interest in the boat which the men used and also the blind, was acting as pilot to the party of six railroad officials who left this place early this morning for the hunting trip.

The members of the party were J. C. Starkweather, division superintendent of the Santa Fe; G. S. Woodward, trainmaster of the western division; Edward Porter, chief clerk to the division engineer; Julius Scrocre, superintendent of bridges and buildings, and Patrick O'Sullivan, chief clerk to the superintendent.

Mr. Woodward is prostrated by the unfortunate accident.

Young Bradish is the son of J. P. Bradish of this place, and was educated in the public schools here. His father, who is an old resident, is now away on an eastern trip, and every effort is being made to notify him of his son's unfortunate death.
