MRS. HENRY FOSDICK, WELL KNOWN THROUGH ARKANSAS VALLEY, DEAD

Special to the Chieftain.

Fowler, Aug. 12.—Sarah A. Fosdick, wife of Henry Fosdick, died at the family home in this city this afternoon at 12:30, of liver trouble. Her sickness dates back to a number of years ago, when she had pneumonia, from which she never fully recovered her strength. She was however, only critically ill a week. From 10 o'clock Wednesday night until the end came Mrs. Fosdick was unconscious and did not recognize any of the family about the deathbed.

Mrs. Fosdick was born in St. Louis in 1850, and was 51 years of age last June. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hughes and with her parents came to Pueblo county in 1874. She became the wife of Henry Fosdick in September, 1882, the wedding taking place in Pueblo. Immediately after this event Mr. and Mrs. Fosdick came to this vicinity. Fowler was not so much a village and the little log cabin in which the Fosdicks lived was the only home near where the city of Fowler now stands. The country was wild at the time and the wooded land along the river was full of wild game. Buffalo roamed the plains and Indians hunted in the valley during the winter months.

The little home was a haven of rest to those passing along the Santa Fe trail from Kansas City to Pueblo, and marks of the old, well beaten trail can still be seen just across the river from the Fosdick home. Mr. and Mrs. Fosdick spent their entire married life here on the ever-shifting frontier and they watched the country develop from a wilderness to a wonderfully productive valley.

The husband and four children are left to mourn the loss of a faithful wife and a good mother. Joseph and Frank Hughes, of Pueblo, are brothers to the deceased. Funeral services will be conducted at the home tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock and the interment will be made in Fairview cemetery here. Services will be conducted by the Rev. R. E. Bird, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church here.
