WORK ON NEW ROAD TO START

Force of Men Will Open on Grade Tomorrow

Starting tomorrow the first actual work to be done on the Pueblo & Southeastern railroad which will connect the new town of Wilson on the Pueblo-Rocky Ford Land company's 100,000-acre tract with Pueblo will be done when a gang of laborers under Contractor Joseph Nix start throwing up the grade near Southern Junction.

The new railroad was incorporated [illegible] and already the engineers have finished their survey for the greater part of the distance between Pueblo and Wilson. The road will embrace all of the territory now owned by the Pueblo-Rocky Ford Land company and will be about 40 miles in length.
