FUNERAL NOTICES.

The funeral of Lee Hartman took place yesterday and was largely attended. The services at the house were conducted by Rev. Thomas Stephenson, and the ceremony at the grave were held under the direction of Valley camp Number 29, W. O. W. The pallbearers and flower bearers were also chosen from among the members of the W. O. W. lodge.

A message received from Ralph Waldo Trine, who is at Baltimore, Md., states that he will reach Pueblo next Saturday to attend the funeral of his brother, Virgil Trine. The funeral will take place from the First Methodist Episcopal church at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Interment in the family lot at Riverview cemetery.

Despite the wintry weather many friends, and the relatives of the late Harry Baker followed the remains from the church to the grave yesterday afternoon. The funeral took place from the house, corner Northern and Palmer avenues, at 3 and from the Mesa Presbyterian church at 3:30 o'clock. The services at the church were conducted by Rev. Campbell, the building being filled with those who loved and esteemed the deceased in life, and whom nothing could daunt in their purpose of showing the last mark of respect possible from the living to the dead. The church choir furnished the music and sang the songs that were favorites of the deceased. The members of Upton post had charge of the services at the grave and paid the last tribute to their departed comrade in an im-
