large shipments. The ports are closed in many of the principal cities where lemons are received and consequently Walter's Export beer, at all first class bars.

DIED TOGETHER--ARE BURIED SIDE BY SIDE

The last chapter in the tragic death of Mrs. Edwin B. Haver and her five year old son, Robert, was closed yesterday by the double funeral which took place from the late residence, 1502 Veta avenue at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

A large concourse of friends assembled in the house and on the lawn and filed by the two caskets, which were in a literal bank of flowers, to take a last look at the departed ones. The service were conducted by Rev. A. E. Holt, of the First Congregational church, Mrs. Haver having been a member of that congregation. The services were very impressive. After he had spoken of the excellent character of the woman and her high standing in the community, the death of the little son was touched on. Mesdames Harris and Kellogg then sang some favorite hymns of the deceased, after which the caskets were borne to the two waiting hearses and the sad procession wended its way to Mountain View cemetery where both mother and son were lowered to the grave to rest side by side.

The love and esteem in which Mrs. Haver and little Robert were held by their many friends and acquaintances was illustrated by the profusion of beautiful floral tributes in evidence.

The pall bearers for Mrs. Haver were: Ray W. Webster, E. J. Mackintosh, N. D. Hinsdale, N. E. Motherway, E. W. Bentley and G. C. Wells. For Robert Haver: R. J. Bruner, Jr., Sydney Jones, George Graham and A. Green.

ALLEGED HOUSE BREAKERS