LARGELY ATTENDED

Explosion Victims are Laid to Rest

The funeral of Nick Uzelac, Mike Radmanovich, Stanko Marich, Jandre Uzelac and Elija Zigich took place from 1714 east Abriendo avenue yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock and from St. Michael's Orthodox church at 2 o'clock. The Rev. Father Papageorgopopoulos of the Greek Orthodox church conducted the services. Interment was made in Roselawn cemetery.

The funeral possession was the largest that has ever been seen in Bessemer and was almost a mile in length. All of the carriages in the city were engaged for the occasion and were needed to accommodate the members of the Balkin-Servian societies, under whose auspices the services were held, and the many friends of the deceased.

The funeral of all of the men was held at the same time and five hearses were required, two of which were black and contained the remains of the two married men, while the other three were white and carried the remains of the young men. The hearses passed along the street forming a V with two hearses in double file in front followed by the other three.

The members of the three Balkin-Servian societies marched in front of the hearses, led by Jerman's band. Following the hearses were the carriages filled with the relatives and friends of the deceased and other carriages, in which the members of the societies rode from the corner of C street and Santa Fe avenue to the cemetery. All of the carriages were driven in double file.

The only accident which happened to mar the occasion occurred in front of the Greek Orthodox church when a wheel of one of the hearses came off. No damage was done to the hearse or the remains which it contained.

Sousa Fully Recovered.
