FUNERAL NOTICES.

Typical of the life he led and the spirit of the man was the funeral of Francis Ingersoll Meston held yesterday morning at 10 o'clock from the family home, Eighteenth and West streets. The coffin was plain black, rich yet simple. It was covered in its entirety by beautiful flowers, the tokens of the sympathy of many friends. Rev. Thomas Stephenson conducted the services and paid a glowing tribuate to the good work done by the deceased for Pueblo and the state. Charles E. Gast, N. E. Guyot, Frank G. Duke and George Harpster, friends of the deceased, also made brief remarks. After the services, the body was carried out by the pall bearers, O. H. P. Baxter, J. H. Olmes, E. A. Odiorne, Hume Lewis, J. J. Burns and F. W. Cooper. Interment was in Riverview cemetery where Rev. Stephenson conducted the services.
