Subject: RE: Draft framework for agreement

Hello Jon,

I feel this is a good start. I'm a little surprised that you seem to have gone towards a "reimbursement" model versus having the URAP retain excess funds and program these dollars towards projects designated by the taxing entities. I don't think I will be able to sell the reimbursement model to my stakeholders...they will see this as taking dollars set aside for redevelopment and using them for other purposes.

If you'd like I can float this around to my stakeholders as is, but it is likely to be a non-starter...or I can use the modified version which I attached here. The modified version I've attached here was the understanding that I thought we had reached last week...correct me if I'm wrong.

Subject: Draft framework for agreement

John,

It was a pleasure to meet with you today. I've attached my understanding of our ideas. The only change I've taken the liberty to suggest is with regard to revenue sharing agreement. I am suggesting the first step is to have a negotiation between URAP and the taxing entity on the use of excess funds.

Let me know what you think. Once we agree on a framework, then I hope you can the specifics to your attorney for more formal draft.

In the meanwhile, I'm going to begin to float this framework to others who I know are interested, and I hope you will do the same with key stakeholders who you are in contact with.

A two-part agreement between the parties is proposed.

Part 1.

- I. The taxing entities are entitled to hold one voting seat on the 15-member URAP Board, in the following numbers:
 - i. The Board for Pueblo City Schools may nominate one member
 - ii. The Board for Pueblo County School District 70 may nominate one member
 - iii. The Board for the Pueblo City-County Library District may nominate one member
 - iv. The Boards of the two Water Conservancy Districts may nominate one member
- b. The nominee of a taxing entity must be approved by the URAP Board
- II. Once approved by the URAP Board, the City Council must approve the appointment
- III. If either URAP or City Council do not approve of a nominee, that taxing entity board may nominate a different individual
- IV. If the second individual is not approved, a third person may be nominated
- V. If the third person is not approved, then City Council may make an appointment of its choosing.
- VI. When a vacancy occurs in a taxing entities seat, the taxing entity board position must be filled within 12 months of the first nomination being made by the taxing entity

Part 2.

- I. There will be a ~~revenue sharing~~ taxing entity project coordination program required for Urban Renewal Plan Areas with respect to the taxing entities, as follows:
 - a. In the event a URAP Plan Area utilizes a format of reimbursing a developer for eligible costs of a public nature, the taxing entities will ~~be reimbursed~~ enter into inter-governmental agreements with the URAP for to program any funds collected via TIF in the Plan Area in excess of 125% of the capped development amount towards redevelopment and public infrastructure improvement projects selected by the taxing entities. The amount of funds programmed by each IGA will be based upon the pro rata share of mill levy collected from the project area's base assessed valuation.
 - i. ~~Disbursal of funds from URAP to each taxing entity~~ Programming of excess TIF funds will be negotiated between each individual taxing entity and URAP.
 - ii. If the negotiation fails to consummate in a deal between an individual taxing entity and URAP for ~~dispersal programming of excess funds to the taxing entity,~~ then the ~~excess funds will be utilized within the designated TIF on projects mutually agreed upon between the taxing entity and URAP~~ may be loaned to another project area with an active taxing entity project need (with a repayment plan).
 - iii. If a taxing entity and URAP cannot consummate an agreement to utilize TIF funds on projects within the designated Urban Renewal Plan Area, then the funds will be deposited into an account until a deal under Part 2. I. a. i. or Part 2. I. a. ii. is reached between URAP and the individual taxing entity.

- b. In the event of a URAP Plan Area utilizing a format of issuing bonds, then the taxing entities ~~will be reimbursed for~~ enter into inter-governmental agreements to program any funds collected via TIF in the Area in excess of 150% of the bonded indebtedness towards redevelopment and public infrastructure improvement projects selected by the taxing entities. The amount of funds programmed by each IGA will be based upon the pro rata share of mill levy collected from the project area's base assessed valuation.
 - i. ~~Disbursal~~ Programming of excess TIF of funds will be negotiated between each individual taxing entity and URAP.
 - ii. If the negotiation fails to consummate in a deal between an individual taxing entity and URAP for programming of excess TIF funds, then the excess TIF funds will be utilized within the designated TIF on projects mutually agreed upon ~~between the taxing entity and URAP~~ may be loaned to another project area with an active taxing entity project need (with a repayment plan).
 - iii. If a taxing entity and URAP cannot consummate an agreement to utilize TIF projects within the designated Urban Renewal Plan Area, then the funds will be deposited into an account until a deal under Part 2. I. b. i. or Part 2. I. b. ii. is reached between URAP and the individual taxing entity.

A two-part agreement between the parties is proposed.

Part 1.

- I. The taxing entities are entitled to hold one voting seat on the 15-member URAP Board, in the following numbers:
 - i. The Board for Pueblo City Schools may nominate one member
 - ii. The Board for Pueblo County School District 70 may nominate one member
 - iii. The Board for the Pueblo City-County Library District may nominate one member
 - iv. The Boards of the two Water Conservancy Districts may nominate one member
- b. The nominee of a taxing entity must be approved by the URAP Board
- II. Once approved by the URAP Board, the City Council must approve the appointment
- III. If either URAP or City Council do not approve of a nominee, that taxing entity board may nominate a different individual
- IV. If the second individual is not approved, a third person may be nominated
- V. If the third person is not approved, then City Council may make an appointment of its choosing.
- VI. When a vacancy occurs in a taxing entities seat, the taxing entity board position must be filled within 12 months of the first nomination being made by the taxing entity

Part 2.

- I. There will be a ~~revenue sharing~~ taxing entity project coordination program required for Urban Renewal Plan Areas with respect to the taxing entities, as follows:
 - a. In the event a URAP Plan Area utilizes a format of reimbursing a developer for eligible costs of a public nature, the taxing entities will ~~be reimbursed~~ enter into inter-governmental agreements with the URAP for to program any funds collected via TIF in the Plan Area in excess of 125% of the capped development amount towards redevelopment and public infrastructure improvement projects selected by the taxing entities. The amount of funds programmed by each IGA will be based upon the pro rata share of mill levy collected from the project area's base assessed valuation.
 - i. ~~Disbursal of funds from URAP to each taxing entity~~ Programming of excess TIF funds will be negotiated between each individual taxing entity and URAP.
 - ii. If the negotiation fails to consummate in a deal between an individual taxing entity and URAP for ~~dispersal programming of excess funds to the taxing entity~~, then the excess funds will be utilized within the designated TIF on projects mutually agreed upon between the taxing entity and URAP may be loaned to another project area with an active taxing entity project need (with a repayment plan).
 - iii. If a taxing entity and URAP cannot consummate an agreement to utilize TIF funds on projects within the designated Urban Renewal Plan Area, then the 100 E Abriendo Ave.

Pueblo, CO 81004-4290

Dear Mr. Walker:

The purpose of this letter is to relay the response of the Urban Renewal Authority of Pueblo ("the Authority") to your proposal emailed to me on Friday, July 29, 2011.

After meeting to discuss the proposal on Tuesday, August 9, 2011, the Urban Renewal Authority of Pueblo's Board of Commissioners is of the opinion that the Authority cannot take any position on your proposal. The Authority considers the issues addressed in your proposal to be under the purview of the City Council of Pueblo, Colorado, and therefore suggests any further discussions should be with City Council.

Sincerely,

John R. Batey, AICP
Executive Director
