User Services

DIRECTOR:

- Jill Kleven met with the substitutes in her new role as their supervisor.
 - An all-day substitute training is being planned for after the reopening.
- Jill has met with Jennifer Tozer and the Greenhorn staff in her role as Jennifer's mentor.
 - She has been spending 4-5 hours a week at Greenhorn prior to the closure.
- Jill has been conducting a fine free analysis and should have that recommendation to Jon by mid to late April.
- Since the closure some of the activities Jill has been working on include increasing digital content, distributing hotspots/tablets to staff and students, working on the process of quarantining material, and handling customers' accounts in Koha.

COLLECTION DEVELOPMENT:

- Rich Poll retired at the beginning of March leaving a collection development vacancy.
 - Theia Bravo, Elizabeth Flores, and Jill have been covering his duties until a new librarian is hired.
- Theia and Elizabeth continue to work on purchase suggestions throughout the closure.
- They are also both continuing to build carts to send into vendors.
- Staff have been contributing to the new Collection Development Google Sheet that was presented on staff day.
 - It seems to be the best way to streamline staff requests and customer feedback.

ACQUISITIONS AND CATALOGING:

- Peggy Bilger ran a quarterly authority update in Koha which helps clean up our holdings.
- Peggy has been working on cataloging tablets and hotspots for staff and students to use.
- Michele Myzia has been working in the mailroom 1-2 days a week during the closure to make sure we continue receiving shipments.
- Michele continues to process all of the new magazines and newspapers that we receive.
- Peggy and Jill have been paying invoices for physical and digital content.

ILS:

- Daniel Gaghan continues his ILS management from home.
 - He is helping with customer accounts.

- Daniel also continues to troubleshoot customers' problems with digital resources.

Professional Development and Meetings

- Amy Nelson is co-chairing the PCCLD Census 2020 Committee with Regina Renee Ward (RRA). Charlene Simms also serves on this committee. The group met on 3/9 and received training from Renee Martinez, Partnership Specialist for the U.S. Census. The group is currently drafting recommendations for the library's plan to promote and provide access to the Census. UPDATE: This work group continues to meet virtually and has been designated as an official Complete Counts Committee. Plans are in place to provide access to the official online survey on the library's website and to work with Community Relations to build a Resource Hub on the library's website. The group is working on virtual training for staff and will implement additional projects when the library reopens.
- Amy Nelson attended online training on 3/10 in preparation for the Hubble 30th Anniversary exhibit. UPDATE: Banners have not been shipped and celebration/exhibit will be postponed until summer/fall 2020.
- The 48-Hour Film Festival Committee met on 3/11 to finalize event planning. UPDATE: This event has been postponed until fall 2020. Amy Nelson serves on the Resilient Pueblo Curatorial Team and has added archived films from previous festival to the visual content that is streamed on the community channels broadcasting from Watertower Place.
- Amy Nelson attended the quarterly regional meeting for Foundation Directory Online (FDO) support on 3/12. UPDATE: PCCLD has been granted remote access to the FDO during the library closure, and is able to provide home access for Pueblo County residents. Amy Nelson is working with the Latino Chamber of Commerce and other local business support networks to promote this resource.

Remote Work Projects (March 13-31)

- Tabitha Davis has started entering the 2011 obituary list into the online database.
- Bree Pappan is creating a virtual tour of the Women's Suffrage exhibit on izi.travel.
- Aaron Ramirez is working on a project to create a new archival collection to preserve documentation of life in Pueblo during the COVID-19 pandemic. Additionally, he is reviewing department policies, and researching best practices for recommendations on additions and/or modifications.
- Hannah Plummer has begun creating e-book lists related to local history and completed a bibliography for the Ludlow Massacre. She is also transcribing oral histories featured on the library's website to assist researchers. She completed transcription for the interviews with Frank S. Hoag, Jr. Additionally, staff from the Circulation department will be assisting with future transcription.
- Charlene Simms created a virtual program for Beginning Genealogy and writing your Family History 101A and Intermediate Genealogy 101B and Using Ancestry.com; also coordinated with Eduardo Griego on a virtual program about Olmec traditions. Charlene Simms will submit information about the New Mexico Genealogy Collection to the SCMS Class Module on PCCLD-University. Charlene Simms is also working on a lesson plan for Chicano Studies for Librarians and Library Staff. Charlene contacted Josephine Jones from the Colorado Humanities to see if we can still contribute information for Colorado Encyclopedia on Pueblo history as they asked us a couple of years ago. Waiting for response. Staff will look at Wikipedia to see what they have on Pueblo History and possibly submit more information.
- Blake Hatton created an online resource guide about personal archiving and digitization. He is also working on metadata correction for digital assets on Content DM.
- Meghan Wilbar has been compiling film lists for the IZ Theater for the summer after the library reopens. Additionally, she is working with an intern from PCC to complete the inventory of art objects in PCCLD's collection. They are currently creating descriptions and metadata for these items and will soon begin adding them into Archives Space.

YS-Sponsored Program Attendance - year over year:

- March 2019 - 1,099
- March 2020 – 754
 - 31% decrease

Gains and Losses:

- The biggest decreases were from centralized tween and teen kit attendance, after 2019's large increase in these categories. After noticing a decrease in the same categories in January, I began to investigate, and the decrease seems to be coming from a decrease in tween programming at a couple branches. I have begun speaking to branch managers about it in an attempt to track down the cause. Branches simply may not require as much central assistance - many have been able to purchase programming supplies through grant funding. But also, absence and vacancy seem to have affected programming. This is perhaps a topic for a YSC conversation - how central YS staff can cover programs in case of absence or vacancy of branch staff. Or perhaps programming subs?

YS-In-House Program Attendance - year over year:

- March 2019 - 3,319
- February 2020 - 1,383
 - 58% decrease

Gains and Losses:

- Almost all of this increase can be attributed to Read Out Loud, which was held in February 2019 but will take place in April this year. In 2019, ROL attendance was 1,591. We also presented at some large outreach events in 2019, which accounted for 240 attendees.
- Rawlings-only teen attendance rose 13% over 2019, for a five year high!

Centralized Programming

Max, the Mouse and Pete the Cat showed up for the Rawlings Storybook Character Party.

Thank You Messages

- From Maria Kramer, YS Manager

“You may notice another five-year high for Rawlings-only teen attendance. I’d like to give Natalie Gallegos a big kudos. She has taken on a lot of additional programming to maintain the teen program.”

- From Roz Manuel De Lizarriturri (patron)

"Last night went great! We had about 85 attendees. The Mayor did a good job of instilling knowledge and confidence about this new direction for Pueblo. Chris from Facilities (mistaken, he is from IT) was on hand the minute we got there and got the media set up perfectly. The microphones worked great all evening. Thank you for all your support. Even though we didn't necessarily need it, I was glad to have the Ryals. The InfoZone holds 100 but it feels a bit crowded with that many. With the Ryals, there is more room to chat afterwards, which many did. Plus having the kitchen available is wonderful.

Respectfully Submitted,
Jon Walker
Executive Director
