CRUSHED TO DEATH

One Man Killed and Another Hurt by Slag.

Caught beneath an avalanche of slag which slid upon them while they were at work at the dump of the Philadelphia smelter, yesterday afternoon, Torrivio Archuleta was crushed so badly about the head and body that he died before reaching the hospital and Licio Roderiguez was severely bruised about the legs and feet.

The men were undermining the pile at the bottom for the purpose of making it fall but it fell quicker than expected and they were buried beneath a heavy mass of slag. Roderiguez had almost succeeded in getting out of harm's way but his companion was caught in the midst of the slide and was entirely buried beneath it.

The injured men were hurried to the Union depot on an engine where they were met by McCarthy's ambulance and taken to St. Mary's hospital but Archuleta died before the hospital was reached. He was 54 years old and lived in Salt creek. He is survived by a widow and two married daughters.

After having his injuries dressed at the hospital, Roderiguez who is also married, was taken to his home in Salt creek. His injuries are serious but it is not thought that he will be permanently crippled.

An inquest will be held at 2 o'clock today at the McCarthy undertaking parlors to investigate the death of Archuleta.

Believe McGreevy Will Recovery

Daniel McGreevy, the engineer whose legs were cut off Thursday evening in a collision which occurred in the steel works, has rallied from the shock caused by his injuries and it is now

Leg
by

While
the track ment at
ing. Nic knocked
the whee
crushing
was nece
He wa
for he pital in years old
on Taylo
He wa
when st
thrown mained
passed ov
The cha
electricity
noises in approach
him.

Falls
ar

Peter C
in the ra
the right
yesterday
top of a
to the di
was redu
Minnequa
His inj
ious.

V

Among
are seen
fine work
His feats
and he ra alike. E
of deliveri
bits of pa
kerchiefs, Every s
some mor ordinary
of work self, and order.
There a
the progr
heavily p
This is