Denver Hotel M... A Real Auto...

W. L. Beattie, owner of the Summit hotel in Denver, one of the most prominent hotel men in the city, narrowly escaped injury when his automobile overturned at Pueblo. The machine was in this city and now is being repaired. The car was traveling at high speed when it skidded and overturned. Neither Mr. Beattie nor his family, who were with him, were injured.

They returned to Denver after having spent Monday at the home of guests of Charlie Adams at the hotel.
