PRELIMINARY OPINION—District Judge Essex today will render a preliminary opinion on the Colorado-Kansas Railway suit, in which the railroad company seeks to have the city clerk publish an ordinance granting the railroad company a franchise to build a track through the main portion of the city. Last Saturday attorneys for both sides argued a question of jurisdiction, the contention being raised that the district judge had no power to pass on the case. Briefs were submitted by the attorneys and the judge's opinion that will be handed down today will have to deal with this legal phase of the question.
