DROPPED DEAD

Well Known Conductor Expires Suddenly.

H. B. Brentlinger dropped dead in the hallway leading from the bath room at his home, 302 Center street, about 7 o'clock yesterday morning. He had just finished taking a bath, and started for the kitchen where his wife was preparing breakfast, when he suddenly fell to the floor and expired before medical aid could reach him.

The cause of death was probably due to the bursting of a blood vessel or heart failure, as he was as well as usual when he entered the bath. He was a member of the Order of Railway Conductors, which order will conduct the funeral services at 10 o'clock Wednesday. He was 37 years old and leaves a widow and two children.

Plans to Open New Restaurant

Pueblo is to have a new first-class restaurant, and if it were not for the fact that business locations in the city are so extremely scarce, it would be opened at an early date. As it is, however, the location cannot be had until next February, when the present lease expires.

J. S. Tucker, whose restaurant at Colorado Springs is famous throughout the state, will open the new place, having already signed the lease for five years with the privilege of extending it another five years. He has secured a very desirable location on one of the main streets with a forty foot frontage, and expects to open an establishment that will be superior in every particular.

Mr. Tucker is an expert in his line, as is demonstrated by the fact that his place at the Springs has been the leading restaurant of the city for years. He will come to Pueblo prepared to furnish the best of everything.
