General W. C. Thomas last evening was well attended and very interesting. Past Department Commander D. L. Holden presided as chairman and made a few appropriate remarks in opening the meeting. Past Department Commander T. J. Downen extended a cordial welcome to the visiting officers.

General Watson gave an interesting talk on his trip around the world, dwelling especially on his visit in Japan shortly after the close of the war between Japan and Russia, telling of the welcome extended to the Japanese soldiers on their return from the war and bayonet drill of the soldiers, and many very interesting incidents.

He also spoke of work of the Grand Army in the department as in a very prosperous condition.

Commander N. E. Webb of Pueblo post read a poem, "The Little Bronze Button."

Assistant Adjutant General W. C. Thomas made a few interesting remarks on the fraternal spirit of the Grand Army and closed with a beautiful poem entitled "Harry Dale at Lookout Mountain."

Comrade E. E. Marsh entertained the audience with music with the bones, accompanied by Mrs. Julia R. Upson on the piano. The bones were the same ones Mr. March used during the war.

The Pueblo G. A. R. drum corps added much to the evening's entertainment by their stirring patriotic music.

Refreshments were served by the Woman's Relief corps.

"Dr. McIvor-Tyndall has just finished reading the lines in my webbed feet, and the lines there do say that Pueblo is going to go some. He also intimates that the Pueblo Indians will probably add to the glory of the city by carting off the 1909 pennant. It seems too good to be true.

REPEAL TIMBER AND STONE ACT

SENATOR NELSON DECLARES GOVERNMENT IS LOSING VALUABLE LAND

Washington, Dec. 3.—The necessity for the repeal of the timber and stone act under which, it was asserted millions of acres of public lands had been taken up by land speculators at low figures and sold later at phenominal advances, was emphasized at tonight's session of the national conservation commission by Senator Knute Nelson of Minnesota. He sounded the key note of the views which were later voiced and which, it is declared, probably will have weight in the recommendations the commission will make to Pres. Roosevelt.

Commissioner Fred Dennett of the general land office was the principal speaker and his remarks dwelling upon the havoc wrought in the forests of the west by land speculators.

Mr. Dennett spoke of the wide latitude given the speculator under the timber and stone act by which 160 acres may be bought at $2.50 per acre and sold probably as high as $50. The government, he said was powerless at this time to prevent this traffic during the operation of the act.

Mr. Dennett stated that during the past year nearly 2,000,000 acres of land had been taken up, according to entries on record. Informal talks took place relative to public lands, their uses and policies.
