

in demon like form. Bill Elwert shining like a gem of the purest ray, with his seven assists without a bobble.

"All the Lincoln fans are saying nice things about the Indians, and while they are already claiming the bunting for the Cornhuskers, they all state that Pueblo is the team that must be beaten to get the rag. Henry Melchior and William McGilvray made up a searching party for hits tonight, and they declare that they have at last found the groove and will hammer the ball against the fence at Des Moines tomorrow. All the Indians are feeling good and are playing together.

"Kindly remember me to Colonel Abbey and tell him that the Indians are sure winners and are going to climb up the percentage ladder faster than a South African squirrel going up a cotton wood tree.

"Yours for fair weather,

"MIKE, THE DUCK.

"P. S.—On looking back towards the hills tonight, I would say that the sun will shine in Pueblo on Sunday, and that it will be a fine day for the web footed population.
