Pueblo man dies in motorcycle accident

A 22-year-old Pueblo man was killed about 12:45 a.m. Sunday when the motorcycle he was driving ran off a South Side road.

Eric Vialpando of 93 Bridle Trail was pronounced dead at the scene of massive head injuries.

Vialpando was eastbound on Granada Boulevard near Aster, when his motorcycle skidded off the road. He appeared to have collided with a speed limit sign 12 feet from the roadway, according to police reports.

Vialpando and the motorcycle were found in a ditch.

Vialpando was not wearing a helmet, the reports said.
