Zoning Change Protests Heard

Delegations from Aberdeen and Belmont filled City Hall Council Chambers to protest at a public hearing Thursday against proposed zone changes before City Planning and Zoning Commission.

Bethany Lutheran Church has asked changing of the northwest corner of Bonnie Brae and MacNaughton from A Residence to C Residence zones to permit a prospective buyer to build apartments.

Fred J. Halbig, 18 MacNaughton, told commissioners that property owners believe the change would reduce value of their homes and increase traffic congestion. He presented protests which he said were signed by 41 of 46 owners directly affected and 10 others near the neighborhood.

Church spokesmen said the land is better suited to apartments than single-family dwellings and that traffic will be affected in only one block because Bonforte is only a block away. The church already has spent substantial sums for landscaping adjacent lots and building fencing, it was reported.
