Latino/a/x Book Festival authors

Xochitl Gonzalez is the Brooklynite daughter of militant activists from the 1970s Chicano Power movement: her mother Nuyorican (New Yorkers of Puerto Rican descent), and her father Mexican American. In 2022, she published her debut novel Olga Dies Dreaming, a New York Times Best Seller. Xochitl's novel follows some of the contours of her life story — a past life as a wedding planner; an activist mother who abandoned the family. It's also a larger story about Latino communities that often go unseen — about class, identity, colonization, political power and the American dream.

Streaming on the PCCLD Facebook and YouTube page Thursday, Sept. 15, 2 p.m.

Saraciea J. Fennell is a Black, Honduran writer, publicist and social entrepreneur. She is a publicity manager for Tor/Forge Books, where she supports new and established authors. She runs The Bronx Is Reading, which includes several initiatives, such as the annual Bronx Book Festival, The Bronx Is Reading Literacy Program, a monthly book club and an online bookstore.

Despite keeping busy these last few years, Saraciea edited her first anthology, Wild Tongues Can't be Tamed: 15 Voices from the Latinx Diaspora. This is a collection of stories that explore all facets of Latinidad, especially those commonly overlooked.

Streaming on the PCCLD Facebook and YouTube pages Thursday, Sept. 29, 2 p.m.

According to the World Health Organization, mental wellness is defined as "a state of well-being in which the individual realizes his or her own abilities, can cope with the normal stresses of life, can work productively and fruitfully, and is able to make a contribution to his or her community." Mental wellness is as important now as ever. This year's NEA Big Read All Pueblo
