INTRODUCING TOGETHER WE READ

The library is launching Together We Read, a literary program where we ask all Pueblos to read one book at the same time. The selected book is Liar, Temptress, Soldier, Spy by New York Times bestselling author Karen Abbott, who also wrote Gypsy Rose and Sin in the Second City.

Tempting Treats and Civil War Feats

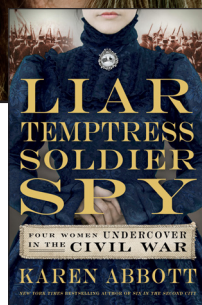

Friday, March 25, 7 p.m., doors open at 6:30 p.m., RA, 4th floor

Cost: $30. Log on to www.pueblolibrary.org/togetherweweread or call (719) 553-0220.

Enjoy a unique evening of scandalous history, smart conversation, unlimited dessert buffet and complimentary champagne/bubbly beverage bar! Karen Abbott, author of Liar, Temptress, Soldier, Spy, makes her Pueblo debut and reveals four untold stories of gutsy Civil War women who were chock-full of political conviction. Buy your ticket today! This event will sell out—don't miss it!

2016 Goals

by Jon Walker

Pueblo City-County Library District aims to provide the best possible public library service for our community. Outcomes in recent years indicate that we are delivering on this promise.

We checked out more books and other library materials than ever last year. We also set new all-time records for the number of people visiting our libraries, those attending PCCLD educational and cultural programs and events, and the use of library district digital resources like public-use computers. PCCLD has adopted an important set of goals for this year to help build on our recent success.

Our new initiatives in 2016 should place us in a strong position to continue our positive influence in the community. I invite you to review the library district's complete 2016 plan and budget, which is available online.

Here are some highlights of special projects you can expect to see during the course of the year from your public library:

Continue the work to convert the earliest editions of The Pueblo Chieftain to digital format. Our local newspaper began publication in 1868 and these initial editions are an important record of the history of our community and this region.

Expand support for parents of young children to better ensure early literacy success. PCCLD has been working on this initiative for over a year. We call it SPELL, short for Supporting Parents in Early Literacy through Libraries. It is based on programs and research of promising practices for libraries to deliver effective early literacy information and resources to low-income families with young children.

Partner with the school districts, arts center, university and other local institutions to increase the public library's impact in the community.

One specific example of this in 2016 is the new ConnectED partnership with Pueblo City Schools and Pueblo County Schools, which should result in a library card for nearly every public school student. PCCLD also will partner with the arts center on an upcoming Ansel Adams exhibit this summer and CSU-Pueblo to increase access to public library resources on campus.

Create a Maker Space program at the Lucero Library. Maker Spaces are learning environments where children, teens, adults, and families can design and create together in activities from woodworking to electronics. We are building on the success of our first Maker Space at the Rawlings Library by investing in this at the Lucero Library to support this great way to learn.

Consider best e-book platforms. PCCLD is providing a growing collection of e-books as interest in this format increases. In 2016, the library district will examine its e-book service to insure we are offering the best possible platform for our users.

Redesign the library district's online presence for subscription databases. PCCLD provides a robust collection of online research databases. We intend to evaluate this and institute changes to improve visibility and usability.

Refresh the InfoZone Museum's exhibit space. With generous support from the Rawlings Family Foundation, PCCLD is working with an exhibit design firm to update features of the museum's interactive education displays.

Secure a 20 percent off-the-shelf rate for the collections of books and materials. PCCLD adheres to a philosophy of maintaining a dynamic, up-to-date collection of materials that meets the current needs of the members of our community. We carefully track use of the books and materials in the collections in order to ensure that we have the items people seek to read and use.

I believe you will agree that 2016 should be another terrific year for PCCLD!

Smart Land Use in Historic Downtowns: Mapping the Dollars and Sense of Land Use Patterns

Joe Minicozzi

Tuesday, March 1, 10:30 a.m., RA, InfoZone-4th floor

Free and open to the public. Challenge assumptions about land use and development. With tools like basic arithmetic, maps, and 3D visualization using ArcScene and CityEngine, Joe Minicozzi—founding member of the Asheville Design Center, a non-profit community design center dedicated to creating livable communities across all of Western North Carolina—discusses suburban sprawl and the value of mixed-use urban development. For more information call The Greater Pueblo Chamber of Commerce at 542-1704.

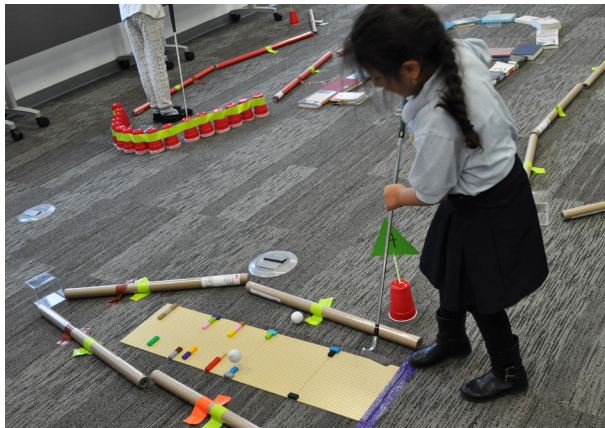

Pecha Kucha Vol. 16 presenters. Back Row: Joey Andenucio and John Woltjer. Front row: Daniel Price, Kristi Roque, Emily Donaghy, Tim Roush, Maria Tucker, Juan Morales and Garrison Ortiz. With nearly 180 in attendance, an overflow room was set up with live-streaming video. The next Pecha Kucha event will feature a bigger venue and additional seating. If you have a topic you would like to present on call 553-0220.

This young baker made her own variation of a cupcake at Generation: Creation. It is a new program for kids age 6-14 that meets on Friday afternoons at Rawlings Library.

A young boy gets help making a bath fizzy at Barkman Library in February.

Kids of all ages enjoyed a round of 9-hole mini-golf inside Lucero Library.

Franklin D. Roosevelt (portrayed by Albert McFadyen at right) entertained a large crowd in February at Rawlings Library. He entered the room via a wooden wheelchair and regaled the crowd with songs and stories.

Rosa Parks (portrayed by Colorado Humanities Scholar Becky Stone) talked about her life and role in the Civil rights movement during a Chautauqua at Rawlings Library in February.

Teens at Pueblo West Library took part in Teen Chopped, based on the popular television show where contestants cook with a box of random ingredients.
