Looking ahead

by Jon Walker

“Here was one place where I could find out who I was and what I was going to become. And that was the public library.”—Jerzy Kosinski

The past 10 years at Pueblo City-County Library District have been noteworthy. The results have been so remarkable this could well be a golden age for our public libraries: beginning in 2004 with the first year of the signature Rawlings Library through 2009 with the reopening of the expanded Pueblo West Library and continuing into 2014 with the addition of three new libraries to the library district. PCCLD today consists of 10 vibrant service outlets, and, in the recent decade, we have seen a dramatic increase in commitment to public libraries as measured by their overall utilization. More people are visiting libraries to use more books and other information resources than ever before. A strong foundation has been established for the future. Now, PCCLD is looking ahead to the coming five years. A new strategic plan entitled Curating Connections: Pueblo City-County Library District 2016-2020 Strategic Plan answers the following question about our local libraries: “What’s next?”

Beginning toward the end of 2014, PCCLD stakeholders and members of the community-at-large engaged in a long-range planning process for our public libraries. This effort has continued throughout the first half of this year. It has included input from a broad range of citizens as well as library employees and professionals. We analyzed county demographics, compared PCCLD with peer libraries in the region and around the country, carefully examined professional standards and trends, and forecast library district revenues and expenditures. From this study, we are able to make several observations about choices for the library district’s future. Our goal is simple. We aim to provide the best possible public library service to our local residents. The people deserve nothing less. I believe this strategic plan will help guide us toward this outcome.

The efforts leading to this important document include the work of many people. I thank those citizens of Pueblo County, Friends of the Library, Pueblo Library Foundation, PCCLD Board of Trustees and employees of the library district, and others who collaborated to ensure this plan resonates and promises to build upon a tradition of excellence. I invite you to review the new plan online at www.pueblolibrary.org.

Remember Encyclopedia Britannica?
Well, it’s back and ready for the 21st century in a new digital format. Gone are the numerous hard cover books, in their place is a sleek online encyclopedia that rivals Wikipedia. This new Britannica not only provides articles written by professional scholars but also online videos, pictures and atlases. Need an article written by a presidential scholar on Ulysses S. Grant or a picture of a Bat-eared Fox? Britannica has it. Residents of Pueblo County can access Britannica Online with a valid library card. Patti Leota Genack is a local artist with an MFA in printmaking. She works in printmaking and mixed media sculpture including glass and bead making. She has recently become interested in the forms and philosophies of how information is recorded and stored. Her book boxes explore and challenge the concept of books in the information age by combining new digital storage media with traditional book binding techniques.

Open studio hours
Saturday, Sept. 5, 10-11:30 a.m.
Tuesday, Sept. 22, 6-7:30 p.m.

Observe our maker-in-residence as she works on her project, creating artistic "book boxes" that incorporate both traditional and high-tech materials.

Project Reveal

Friends of the Library president's corner

by Doreen Martinez

The purpose of the Friends of the Pueblo City-County Library District is to "help the library system make educational, informational, cultural, and recreational services available to the public."

Friends of the Library assists our library district in multiple ways each year. The main source of revenue for the Friends of the Library is our used book store, Books Again, located at 622 S. Union Ave (southeast of Rawlings Library). As a member of the Friends of the Library, patrons of Books Again receive an additional 10 percent discount off books already discounted 75 percent or more off the list price. Books Again is currently offering all hardback fiction books written by authors whose last name begins with Q and R. The next Book by the Bag sale will be held Oct. 1-3. Members of Friends of the Library will be allowed to shop the special "Member Day" Thursday, Oct. 1. Mark your calendars!

The volunteers at Books Again are the most valuable asset to our organization. They will be participating in the Colorado State Fair Kids' Day Parade this year on Sept. 5. Look for them along the parade route before the parade begins. They will be handing out a free book to every child in attendance. If you are interested in volunteering at Books Again or for the special events such as the parade please leave a message at Books Again.

Now is the perfect opportunity to become a member of Friends of the Library. Simply fill out the membership form on the last page of this newsletter and begin enjoying the perks of membership and the satisfaction of supporting our library district today.

The Pillowcase Project
Learn. Practice. Share.

Friday, Sept. 11, 10-11 a.m., PW, Jerry King Room A
Free program recommended for students in grades 3-5.

For more information on The Pillowcase Project go to:
http://www.redcross.org/prepare/location/school/preparedness-education/the-pillowcase-project

The Pillowcase Project teaches students about personal and family preparedness, local hazards and basic coping skills.

The program leads students through a “learn,
practice, share” framework to engage them in disaster preparedness.

Students receive a sturdy pillowcase upon completion of the program to build their personal emergency supplies kit.
